

EDU 498: Literacy Learning as Social Practice Now Open

Hello and welcome to EDU 498: Literacy Learning as Social Practice!

As I shared in my previous message, my name is Alyse Cunzio, and I'm excited to be your guide this semester as we explore the powerful and vital role literacy plays in our lives and communities.

In case you didn't realize during registration, this is a Summer Intensive course. What is typically a 15-week semester has been condensed into 6 weeks. To accommodate this compressed timeline, we will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4:50 PM to 8:10 PM, starting May 19th and ending June 25th.

This course is structured as a fully online experience with both synchronous and asynchronous components.

- Synchronous classes will be held live on Zoom
- All materials and links will be accessible via Blackboard Ultra

Before Our First Class

Our goal for the first session is to intentionally and collaboratively build our learning space.

To prepare for our opening conversation, please complete the Module 1 readings and viewings listed below.

Blackboard is now open, and the full course overview, schedule and module one are available. There may still be some minor changes to readings so refrain from printing out the course checklist just yet.

Please complete the pre-course materials and take time to explore the course layout.

Required Text

There is one required text for the course:

Cultivating Genius: An Equity Framework for Culturally and Historically Responsive Literacy* by Dr. Gholdy Muhammad.

Please secure a copy as soon as possible.

If you have any questions, concerns, or need accommodations for the semester, please don't hesitate to reach out. I'm looking forward to learning with you all.

Until then, be well.

Warm regards,

Alyse Cunzio
